

Book Club Questions for Lee Hull Moses's More than Enough

What privileges do you have that others don't? Do you consider yourself rich? Why or why not?

What are the challenges keeping you from making more sustainable, responsible, faithful choices about your life?

When you think about your life, how do you define "enough"?

What values do you and your family hold about money? How did you develop those values?

What are some things you have done—or would like to do—to limit your acquisition of things?

The author says "Sabbath rest is not just a practice of self-care, but also care for creation and care for neighbor" (p. 78). Do you agree? In what ways is your Sabbath a work day for someone else?

In what ways has your life been challenged or inspired by people from a culture different from yours?

Where do you find hope in the face of the world's inequalities and injustices?

The author says that "charity is just a stopgap measure to hold things together until we work out God's real justice" (p. 106). Do you agree? What does God's justice look like?

Do you think Christianity is counter-cultural? Should it be? In what ways does the Christian story call you to live life differently?

What changes will you make in your life as a result of reading this book?

Most Westminster John Knox Press books are available at special quantity discounts when purchased in bulk by corporations, organizations, and special-interest groups.

For more information, please e-mail SpecialSales@wjkbooks.com.